

CONTENTS

Editorial Foreword		ix
Preface		xi
List of Abbreviations		xv
ONE	Individualism, Communalism, and Universalism in Hegel's Ethical Thought	1
	1. Introduction	1
	2. Greek Communalism	4
	3. Kantian Individualism	7
	4. Sittlichkeit : Ethical Substance as Self-Differentiating Community	9
	5. Hegel and Universalism	18
	6. Some Critical Afterthoughts	22
TWO	Persons and International Law in Hegel	25
	1. Introduction	25
	2. Hegel's Concept of a Person	26
	3. Persons and Law	33
	4. International Law and the Possibility of World Community	37
THREE	Realist Objections to Hegel's Ideas on International Law and World Community	47
	1. Introduction	47
	2. Realism and the Immanence of War	50
FOUR	Hegel and Cosmopolitanism	69
	1. Introduction	69
	2. Kantian Cosmopolitanism	70
	3. Post-Kantian Cosmopolitanism	84
	4. Hegel contra Cosmopolitanism	99
FIVE	The State and Beyond: The Possibility of World Community	115
	1. Introduction	115
	2. Toward a Concept of the State as an Ethical Community	128
	3. Toward a "Modern Polis ": Hegel's Early Political Writings	129

SIX	The Modern Polis and Its Limits	139
	1. Rightness, Freedom, and Justice in the Modern Polis	139
	2. Morality, Welfare, and Conscience in the Modern Polis	146
	3. Ethical Life in the Modern Polis : Family, Civil Society, and State	152
	4. Limits of the State as an Ethical Community	175
SEVEN	Hegel and the Possibility of a Just World Order	183
	1. Introduction: Die Weltgeschichte und das Weltgericht	183
	2. The Possibility of World Community	187
	3. Toward a Just World Order	201
	4. Justice and World Order	213
EIGHT	Conclusion	223
Notes		229
Bibliography		251
About the Author		261
Index		263