

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The present book is a revised and updated version of a doctoral thesis, which commenced in the University of Oxford in October 1995 and was submitted in February 1998. I am grateful to my supervisor, Professor Derrick A. Wyatt, QC of St. Edmund Hall, for so expertly showing me what a D.Phil thesis is all about. I have benefited greatly from our wide ranging discussions.

I would also like to thank my College Advisor, Mark Janis, who has always agreed to help me in various endeavours.

Professor David Caron of Boalt Hall School of Law invited me to spend an academic term at the University of California at Berkeley as a Visiting Scholar. I would like to thank him for the most productive time I had there and also the United Nations Librarian at Berkeley for her assistance in securing all kinds of documents.

The British Academy has awarded me a full Research Studentship and has also partly financed by visits abroad, for which additional funding was given by the Cyril Foster Fund and the University Chest.

I would also like to thank the judges at Oxford's Centre for International Studies for awarding me a Proxime Accessit prize of the Daszturzada Dr Jal Pavry Memorial Prize.

Professor Peter Malanczuk of Erasmus University Rotterdam has been very kind in accepting this book for publication in the present Series.

Last but not least, my sincere thanks to Dr Gino Naldi of the University of East Anglia at Norwich and Professor Peter Kaye of the University of Wales at Swansea for their unfailing support and friendship.
