

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am extremely grateful to the Suntory Foundation for a generous donation to assist with the publication of this book. I am also grateful to the Japan Foundation for its financial support, and for the Fellowship which enabled me to complete the research and translation of Katai's memoirs at Kōbe University. I am indebted to Kōbe University for extending its facilities to me, and in particular I am indebted to Professor Nishigaki Tsutomu, Professor of Modern Japanese Literature, for his enthusiastic and painstaking assistance on a whole range of obscure topics. My thanks are also due to Mr Okamoto Yoshio, a private scholar based in Kōbe, to Mr Suzuki Michio, of the Chiyoda-ku Library, Tōkyō, and to the numerous specialists who have helped with various points of detail.

Tōkyō at the turn of the century. From Papinot's Historical and Geographical Dictionary of Japan, 1910. (Courtesy of Charles E. Tuttle Co. Inc.)