

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Preliminary work on this study was made possible by a Presidential Fellowship from The Ohio State University. Subsequent research in Germany during the summers of 1983, 1985, and 1988 was supported in part by both a Short-Term Research Stipend and Study Visit Grant from the German Academic Exchange Service (Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst), a Travel to Collections Grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, and by the University of South Florida Research and Creative Scholarship Grant Program under Grant Nos. 19-5223-920 and 3623-933-R5. For providing access to relevant holdings, I am grateful to the staffs of the Berlin Document Center, the German Federal Archive (Bundesarchiv) in Coblenz, the German Literary Archive (Deutsches Literaturarchiv) in Marbach am Neckar, the German Radio Archive (Deutsches Rundfunkarchiv) in Frankfurt am Main, and the Institute for Contemporary History (Institut für Zeitgeschichte) in Munich. The radio play departments of the Bayerischer Rundfunk, the Südwestdeutscher Rundfunk, and the Westdeutscher Rundfunk broadcasting stations generously supplied me with manuscripts of broadcasts by and about Günter Eich. A debt of gratitude is also owed to Ilse Aichinger, the late Jürgen Eggebrecht, Christoph Meckel, Hans Dieter Schäfer, Oda Schaefer, Heinz Schafroth, and Heinz Schwitzke for responding to requests for background information and unpublished material. And finally, special thanks must go to my wife Claudia, who from the start to the finish of this book manuscript put in countless hours as my first reader and unpaid editorial assistant.
