

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In addition to my wife who for more than fifty years has loyally read proof of my manuscripts, without the assistance of three scholars this work would not have seen the light. Professor Barbara Saylor Rodgers, chairperson of a Classics department, to whom I dedicated Topography V in 1985, has continued to assist me by transforming onto a floppy disk my not always legible manuscript. The formatting of camera-ready copy is the work of Dr. Sara B. Aleshire, who generously took time from her own research and her editorial work with SEG. To John McK. Camp II, retiring as Mellon Professor of Classical Studies in the American School of Classical Studies, now Director of the Agora excavations, I owe a debt which goes beyond the ability of any words to acknowledge. He traveled with me to the various sites which are discussed in this volume. The two of us project a work which will be titled "An Archaeological and Topographical Commentary on Thucydides," the completion of which, however, will require several years and lies very much in the lap of the gods. In addition, I have had the benefit of discussing with Ronald Stroud in the seminar room at Berkeley various problems which are treated in this volume. J.C. Gieben of Amsterdam, without resorting to the delays created by copy-editors, has in the most friendly spirit undertaken the publication of the text.
