

The Great War and the Anthropocene

History of Warfare

Editors

Kelly DeVries (Loyola University Maryland)
Aimée Fox (King's College London)
John France (Swansea University)
Paul Johstono (The Citadel, South Carolina)
Frederick Schneid (High Point University, North Carolina)

VOLUME 148

The titles published in this series are listed at brill.com/hw

The Great War and the Anthropocene

Empire and Environment, Soldiers and Civilians on the Eastern Front

Edited by

Kerstin S. Jobst
Oksana Nagornaia
Kerstin von Lingen

BRILL

LEIDEN | BOSTON

This publication is licensed - unless otherwise indicated - under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International (CC BY 4.0) license (<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0>), which permits use, sharing, adaptation, distribution, and reproduction in any medium or format, as long as you give appropriate credit to the original author(s) and source, provide a link to the Creative Commons license, and indicate any modifications.

The images or other third-party material in this publication are covered by the publication's Creative Commons license, unless otherwise indicated in a reference to the material. If the material is not covered by the publication's Creative Commons license and the intended use is not permitted by law or exceeds the permitted use, permission for use must be obtained directly from the copyright holder. Despite careful editing, all information in this publication is provided without guarantee; any liability on the part of the author, the editor, or the publisher is excluded.

Published with the support of the Austrian Science Fund (FWF): 10.55776/PUB1130

Research results from: Austrian Science Fund (FWF): 10.55776/I5305

FWF Austrian Science Fund

Cover illustration: "Granattreffer in einer russischen Protzenstellung" (Shell hit in a Russian artillery gun position), around 1915/16, Oil on canvas, by Alexander Pock (1871-1950). Courtesy of Heeresgeschichtliches Museum HGM (Army Museum) Wien, B120589.

The Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data is available online at <https://catalog.loc.gov>
LC record available at <https://lcn.loc.gov/2024033754>
LC ebook record available at <https://lcn.loc.gov/2024033755>

Typeface for the Latin, Greek, and Cyrillic scripts: "Brill". See and download: brill.com/brill-typeface.

ISSN 1385-7827

ISBN 978-90-04-71011-5 (hardback)

ISBN 978-90-04-71181-5 (e-book)

DOI 10.1163/9789004711815

Copyright 2024 by Kerstin S. Jobst, Oksana Nagornaia and Kerstin von Lingen. Published by Koninklijke Brill BV, Leiden, The Netherlands.

Koninklijke Brill BV incorporates the imprints Brill, Brill Nijhoff, Brill Schöningh, Brill Fink, Brill mentis, Brill Wageningen Academic, Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, Böhlau and V&R unipress.

Koninklijke Brill BV reserves the right to protect this publication against unauthorized use.

This book is printed on acid-free paper and produced in a sustainable manner.

Contents

List of Figures and Tables vii
Notes on Contributors x

Introduction: Embattled Nature: Soldiers, Civilians, and Landscapes on the Eastern Front of the Great War 1

Kerstin S. Jobst, Oksana Nagornaia, and Kerstin von Lingen

PART 1

Environment as the Battlefield

1 Contested Landscapes, Manifold Spaces: Analysing the Warscapes of the First World War 33

Christoph Nübel

2 Logistics and Transformation of the Landscape for Mountain Warfare:
the Plateaus of Lavarone and Folgaria, 1866–1918 57

Gustavo Corni

3 Destruction of Nature through Warfare in (Austrian) Galicia during the First World War 77

Tomasz Kargol

4 Oil as a Resource and Element of Defence: the Cases of Galicia in 1915 and Romania in 1916 95

Yaroslav Golubinov

PART 2

Environment and Public Health

5 Animal Fighters, Animal Victims: the Animal Dimension on the Russian-Austrian Front of the First World War 127

Oksana Nagornaia

6 “Dangerous Experiment” vs. “Great Blessing”: Vaccination and Healthcare Narratives of the Imperial and Royal Army on the Eastern Front (1914–16) 145

Andrea Rendl

- 7 Macedonia as a Challenge to the Medical and Humanitarian Efforts of the Allied Armies on the Front d'Orient, 1915–18 172
Gwendal Piégais

PART 3

Belligerent Landscapes from the Victims' Perspective

- 8 City, Forts, and the San River—Przemysł, 1914–15: Militarization of the Landscape and the Question of Environmental Awareness 197
David Novotny
- 9 Landscapes of the Eastern Front of the First World War in Narratives and Survival Practices of Ukrainian Refugees 221
Liubov Zhvanko
- 10 Galician Landscapes through the Camera Lens: Visualizing Combat Spaces of the First World War 241
Alexandra Likhacheva

PART 4

Imperial Debris: Demilitarization of Landscapes in the Era of Imperial Collapse

- 11 Toxic Heritage of the War: Demilitarization of Eastern Front Landscapes 265
Yulia Zherdeva
- 12 Conceptualizing the Post-Battle Landscape: the First World War Military Cemeteries and Monuments in Galicia 292
Kamil Ruszala
- 13 First World War Memorialization in Ukrainian Lands (Late 1910s to 1930s) 330
Hanna Bazhenova
- 14 Conflict Landscapes at the Edge of Empire: Archaeology and Environment of a Desert Insurgency – the Arab Revolt, 1916–18 359
Nicholas J. Saunders

Figures and Tables

Figures

- 1.1 Zille. Source: https://digital.staatsbibliothek-berlin.de/werkansicht?PPN=PPN717979555&PHYSID=PHYS_0027&DMDID=DMDLOG_0001&view=overview-toc 33
- 1.2 Otto Dix, Granattrichter mit Blumen (1915), Source: akg images 34
- 2.1 Borders. Source: Cesare Battisti, Il Trentino, Istituto Geografico De Agostini, Novara, 1919 59
- 2.2 Fortifications. Source: Grande Guerra + 100, www.trentinograndeguerra.it/gg+100 61
- 2.3 Road under construction. Source: Kriegsarchiv Vienna 63
- 2.4 Map of telephone cables. Source: Kriegsarchiv Vienna 64
- 2.5 Ropeway under construction. Source: Private collection 66
- 2.6 Map of ropeways. Source: Kriegsarchiv Vienna 68
- 2.7 Civilians at work. Source: Private collection 70
- 2.8 Barbed wire. Source: Kriegsarchiv Vienna 72
- 2.9 Landslide. Source: Private collection 72
- 8.1 Map of Przemyśl Fortress: from Allen L. Churchill, The Story of the Great War. Vol. v, eBook, Dez. 14, 2007, p. 1449 206
- 10.1 RGAKFD, al. 1243, ph. 35 Teenage children from the village of Rakitno ploughing the land with a horse-drawn plough. March 27, 1916 248
- 10.2 RGAKFD, ph. 233466 Cattle prepared for slaughter 248
- 10.3 RGAKFD, ph. 34107 Dead Russian soldiers in the defensive positions near Jarosław. Galicia, 1914-1916 251
- 10.4 RGAKFD, ph. 2-48400, Dead soldiers near a wire entanglement, 1914 253
- 10.5 RGAKFD, al. 966, ph. 23 A ruined railway bridge 253
- 10.6 RGAKFD, al. 1243, Bukovina 1916. Album with photographs of destruction (P.O.Dembitsky's album was transferred to the archive in 1966), ph. 185 256
- 10.7 RGAKFD, ph. 257876, Destroyed automobiles and tanks on a battle site near a forest road, The Austrian front, 1914 256
- 10.8 RGAKFD, ph. 232942, A battery of gas containers in a defensive position 257
- 10.9 RGAKFD, ph. 243296, Casings from artillery shells near a railway line (Russian–German Front) 257
- 12.1 Trenches on the Dunajec River and graves of fallen soldiers in Sierakowice–Łukanowice (western Galicia). Source: Private Collection of Robert Kozłowski 293

- 12.2 Division of western Galicia into ten cemetery districts, where 378 war cemeteries were created under the auspices of KGA-Krakau. Source: ANK 296
- 12.3 War cemetery no. 55 in Gładyszów by Dušan Jurkovič. Source: ANK 303
- 12.4 War cemetery no. 36 in Podzámčie by Johann Jäger. Source: ANK 304
- 12.5 War cemetery no. 80 in Sękowa by Hans Mayr. Source: ANK 305
- 12.6 War cemetery no. 226 in Zawadka Brzostecka by Gustav Rossmann. Source: ANK 307
- 12.7 War cemetery no. 190 in Janowice by Heinrich Scholz. Source: ANK 308
- 12.8 War cemetery no. 251 in Uście Jezuickie by Johann Watzal and Emil Ladewig. Source: ANK 309
- 12.9 Main monument on war cemetery no. 290 in Charzewice by Robert Motka on propaganda postcard. Source: Private collection of Kamil Ruszała 310
- 12.10 War cemetery no. 80 in Sękowa by Hans Mayr with unrealized chapel. Source: R. Broch, H. Hauptmann, 434 313
- 12.10A Unimplemented chapel project at the war cemetery in Sękowa near Gorlice, designed by Hans Mayr. Source: ANK 313
- 12.11 Original decoration by Robert Motka of the war cemetery on Cemetery Hill in Gorlice. Source: ANK 316
- 12.12 Unrealized monument for military cemetery in Gorlice by Robert Motka with ossuary, chapel and column. Source: “Art in Uniform. The War Graves Department in Kraków 1915–1918” Exhibition in International Cultural Centre, Kraków, November 2022 317
- 12.13 Unrealized “Hall of Fame” by Dušan Jurkovič as the main architectural accent on the military cemetery Gorlice. Source: ANK 319
- 12.14 War cemetery no. 91 in Gorlice in its final form: monumental entrance gate and stone wall by Emil Ladewig, and a monumental memorial cross by Gustav Ludwig. Source: ANK 320
- 12.15 Original and unrealized monument at war cemetery no. 118 in Staszakówka by Anton Müller. Source: Source: ANK
- 12.16 Realized project of the monument at cemetery no. 118 in Staszakówka by Prof. Kurt Hermann Hosaeus. Source: R. Broch, H. Hauptmann, 169 321
- 13.1 Map of East-Central Europe in 1910. Map created by Ievgeniia Kuzmenko 331
- 14.1 Map showing sites mentioned in the text. Source: GARP 361
- 14.2 The Darb al-Hajj al-Shami Pilgrim Road in Wadi Rutm. Source: Author 362
- 14.3 Ruins of Wadi Rutm Hejaz Railway Station. Source: Author 364
- 14.4 Makins’ Fort, which defended a large Hejaz Railway bridge. Source: Author 366
- 14.5 Railway wreckage of the Hallat Ammar train ambush, 19 September 1917. Source: Author 367
- 14.6 Large cistern at the Hajj fort of Fassu’ah. Source: Author 370

- 14.7 Subterranean cistern at Aqabat Hejazia Station. Source: Author 370
- 14.8 Laying the water pipeline in 2012 during the 'Disi Water Conveyance Project'
Source: Author 372
- 14.9 Landscape of the Al-Hiyyshah area near Rās Al-Hadīd. Source: Author 376

Tables

- 4.1 Source of the table is Ostrogradskiĭ, Otchet Predstavitelĭa [Report of a representative], p. 11 101
- 12.1 Main architects of war cemeteries in KGA-Krakau assigned to war graves districts 1–X, Source: ANK, WUoNGW, GW 10; R. Broch, H. Hauptmann, passim; Beata Nykiel, Agnieszka Partridge, and Kamil Ruszała, Sztuka w mundurze: Krakowski Wydział Grobów Wojennych 1915–1918/Art in Uniform: Kraków War Graves Department 1915–1918 (Kraków: Międzynarodowe Centrum Kultury/International Cultural Centre 2022), pp. 114–19 298

Notes on Contributors

Hanna Bazhenova

is a historian, juridical scholar, and political scientist. She is an Assistant Professor at the Laboratory for International Memory Studies at Maria Curie-Skłodowska University in Lublin and Senior Analyst at the Eastern Department of the Institute of Central Europe (Poland). She is the author of four scholarly monographs and numerous publications focusing on Central and Eastern European history and politics. Her main areas of interest are the history of Poland, Russia, and Ukraine; the politics of history and politics of memory; and domestic and foreign policy and the political system of Ukraine.

Gustavo Corni

was until retirement (2018) Chair of Contemporary History at the University of Trento, after having taught in Venice, Chieti, Trieste. Fellow of the Humboldt Stiftung (1992 and ff.), at the Oxford Centre for Hebrew and Jewish Studies (1999/2000) and at the Freiburg Institute of Advanced studies (FRIAS) (2008/2009). A specialist in German history (in particular the Nazi period), of the comparative history of dictatorships and also of the social history of the two world wars, he has published in various languages 20 monographs and several collections of essays. Among the most recent publications: Guglielmo II. L'ultimo imperatore, Rome, Salerno, 2022, Weimar. La Germania dal 1918 al 1933, Rome, Carocci, 2020; as co-author: Agrarpolitik im 20. Jahrhundert. Das Bundesministerium für Ernährung und Landwirtschaft und seine Vorgänger, Berlin, De Gruyter, 2020, and People on the Move: Forced Population Movements in the Second World War and its Aftermath, Oxford, Berg, 2009. His current research project is the history of the Austro-German military occupation of North-Eastern Italy in 1917-1918.

Yaroslav Golubinov

is a PhD in History, an associate professor and a dean of the Faculty of History at the Samara National Research University (Samara, Russia). Research field: the environmental history of the First World War, Russian history 1900s-1920s, local history of the Volga region. Selected publications: Golubinov, Iaroslav. 'Oil Fires of the First World War: Military Use and Destruction of Galicia's Fuel Industry', Quaestio Rossica 11, no. 2 (2023): 586-602. <https://doi.org/10.15826/qr.2023.2.807>; Golubinov, Iaroslav A., and Oksana S. Nagornaia. 'Embattled Nature: Men and Landscapes on the Eastern Front of the First World War', in Science, Technology, Environment, and Medicine in Russia's Great War and Revolution, 1914-22, edited by Anthony Heywood, Scott William Palmer, and Julia

A. Lajus, 333–51. Bloomington, IN: Slavica Publishers, 2022; Nagornaia, O. S., and Y. A. Golubinov. ‘Ėkologicheskaia istoriia Pervoĭ mirovoĭ voĭny na Vostochnom fronte: lakuny istoriograficheskogo landshtafta i issledovatel'skie perspektivy [The Environmental History of the First World War at the Eastern Front: Historiographic Landscape and Research Prospects]’, Perm University Herald. History, no. 2(53) (2021): 5–16. <https://doi.org/10.17072/2219-3111-2021-2-5-16>.

Kerstin S. Jobst

has been Professor of Eastern European Studies at the University of Vienna since 2012. Her main research interests are history of East Central and Eastern Europe, the Black Sea region, the Caucasus region, and the Habsburg Monarchy; the comparative study of empire and colonialism; the history of religion and hagiography; cultures of memory and the politics of history; the history of tourism in Eastern Europe; histories of disaster/catastrophe studies. She is currently directing two international projects: “The Great War and the Anthropocene: Empire and Environment in Eastern Europe (2021-2024) (Conflict Landscapes of the First World War/ Military Landscapes of the Great War, <https://konfliktlandschaften-galizien.univie.ac.at/>) with Kerstin von Lingen and Oksana Nagornaia and “Handbook on the History and Culture of the Black Sea Region” (together with Ninja Bumann, Stefan Rhodewald and Stefan Troebst). Among her latest publications are Geschichte der Krim, Berlin/Boston 2022 (in English and Ukrainian in 2024); Geschichte der Ukraine, Ditzingen 2022, 3rd edition and also as a publication of the German Bundeszentrale für politische Bildung (Federal Agency for Civic Education).

Tomasz Kargol

is professor at the Jagiellonian University, an employee of History Institute of the Jagiellonian University. His research interest covers widely-understood social-economic history of the Polish lands in the 19th and the 20th centuries and the history of the Austrian partition (Galicia), with particular focus on economic self-government, the country, Polish landed gentry, economic aspects of the World War I, towns of Galicia, and sources for the history of Galicia in archives and libraries of Poland, Austria and Ukraine. His academic achievements include several monographs, several critical editions to sources and several dozens of articles in magazines (among others, in “Kwartalnik Historyczny”, “Przegląd Historyczny”, “Zeszyty Naukowe UJ. Prace Historyczne”) and joint publications. The latter include publications on Galicia: Odbudowa Galicji ze zniszczeń wojennych w latach 1914-1918, Kraków 2012, Miasta i miasteczka wschodniej części Galicji pod koniec XVIII wieku, T. V: Rzymskokatolickie instytucje religijne w miastach Galicji, Przełom XVIII i XIX wieku, Kraków-Lwów 2020.

Alexandra Likhacheva

is a PhD student at the Yaroslavl State Pedagogical University named after K. D. Ushinsky (Russia). Her main research field is the environmental history of the First World War and the Eastern Front. Publication: Likhacheva A., “Romanticization and demonization: Galician landscapes in the individual narratives of Russian combatants during the Great war”, in Quaestio Rossica, 2023, vol. 11, nr. 2, p. 603–616. DOI 10.15826/qr.2023.2.808.

Oksana Nagornaia

is historian and associated researcher at the Humboldt University of Berlin with her project on the environmental history of the Great War, supported by the Carl Friedrich von Siemens Stiftung. Previously, she taught at Cheljabinsk and Yaroslavl Pedagogical University. She was also a fellow at Gerda-Henkel-Stiftung, the German Historical Institute Moscow, the German Research Foundation, and the Center for Contemporary History (ZZF Potsdam). Publications: Nagornaya O., Golubinov Ya., “Embattled Nature: Men and Landscapes on the Eastern Front of ww1”, in Science, Technology, Environment and Medicine in Russia’s Great War and Revolution, 1914-1922, ed. Anthony J. Heywood, Scott W. Palmer and Julia A. Lajus, Bloomington, Indiana: Slavica, 2022, p. 333-351. Nagornaia O., and von Lingen K., “Conflict Landscapes of the Great War: An Interdisciplinary Approach to the Spatial and Ecological Dimension of Military History”, in Quaestio Rossica, 2023, vol. 11, nr. 2, p. 571–585. DOI 10.15826/qr.2023.2.806.

David Novotny

is a PhD student and research fellow at the Institute of Eastern European History at the University of Vienna. He is currently writing his dissertation as part of the international project “Great War and Anthropocene: Empire and Environment in Eastern Europe” (funded by FWF and RFBR). His research area is the mutual influences between people and the environment in the Galician theatre of the First World War, with a focus on the experiences of the combatants of the Austro-Hungarian army.

Christoph Nübel

is historian at the Bundeswehr Center for Military History and Social Sciences, Potsdam. He specializes in military history, the history of space, and Otto von Bismarck. He is editorial board member of the Militär-geschichtliche Zeitschrift and part of the Arbeitskreis Militär-geschichte e.V. executive committee. His publications include: Durchhalten und Überleben an der Westfront. Raum und Körper im Ersten Weltkrieg, Paderborn 2014; “Raum in der Militär-geschichte und Gewalt-geschichte. Probleme, Ergebnisse und neue Felder der Forschung”, Militärgeschichtliche Zeitschrift 73 (2014), pp. 285-307; “Modern Warfare: Camouflage Tactics (‘Tarnung’) in the German Army during the First World War”, First World War Studies 6 (2015) 2, pp. 113-32.

Gwendal Piégais

is an ERC postdoctoral fellow at the Centre for War Studies at University College Dublin. His research focused on the history of the Russian brigades in the Balkans during the Great War, a military contingent sent to the aid of Serbian and to secure Russian influence in the region. This thesis is part of a wider history of the Entente armies on the Balkan theatre of the First World War. His recent research explores the history of the Russian Civil War, focusing on the Allied intervention in Ukraine and in the Baltic region, and on the humanitarian dimension of European civil wars. His work has appeared in several journals and edited volumes, including 20&21. Revue d'histoire, and Guerres mondiales et conflits contemporains.

Andrea Rendl

is a PhD student and research fellow at the Institute for Eastern European History at the University of Vienna. She is currently writing her dissertation on “Medicine at the Eastern Front of the First World War”. As a team member of the international research project “Great War and the Anthropocene” (funded by RFBR and FWF), her main research area is the history of medicine with a special focus on the military medical service of the Imperial and Royal Army in the First World War.

Kamil Ruszala

PhD, Assistant Professor in Modern History at Jagiellonian University, studied history in Kraków (Jagiellonian University), Vienna (University of Vienna) and Prague (Charles University). He specializes in East Central Europe in the 19th to 20th centuries, with particular focus on the Habsburg Empire, WW1, postimperial transformation, refugees, war commemoration and cemeteries, and the social experience of war. Recently published: Art in Uniform. The War Graves Department in Kraków 1915–1918 (2022); together with: B. Nykiel, A. Partridge; Galicyski Eksodus. Uchodźcy podczas I wojny światowej w monarchii Habsburgów (2022); Eng.: The Galician Exodus. Refugees during the First World War in the Habsburg Monarchy; Postwar Continuity and New Challenges in Central Europe, 1918–1923: The War That Never Ended, ed. with T. Pudłocki; Routledge: Taylor & Francis Group (2022). Visiting professor at Institute of Human Sciences in Vienna (2022/2023); University of Buffalo, SUNY (2021); University of Antwerp (2021); University of Illinois at Chicago (2020); Université

Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne (2019). PI of the research projects: Heritage of War 1914–1918 (JU); Forgotten WW1 Refugee Camps in the Austria-Hungary (NCN); Humans in Motion Research Group (JU).

Nicholas J. Saunders

is in the Department of Anthropology and Archaeology at Bristol University. His research includes the archaeology and anthropology of landscape, material culture, and cultural memory of 20th- and 21st-century conflict in Europe and the Middle East. He was co-director of the “Great Arab Revolt Project” in southern Jordan (2005–2014), and has worked extensively in France, Belgium, and the Slovenian-Italian border on his First World War projects. His most recent publications include: “Killing Time: Archaeology and the First World War” (2010), Bodies in Conflict (2014), The Poppy: A History of Conflict, Loss, Remembrance and Redemption (2014), and Conflict Landscapes (2021). His book Desert Insurgency: T.E. Lawrence, Archaeology and the Arab Revolt was published by Oxford University Press in 2020. He is co-editor of the Routledge series ‘Material Culture and Modern Conflict’.

Kerstin von Lingen

is a historian at the University of Vienna, where she has held the Chair of Contemporary History since 2019. She is Co-PI of the research project “Great War and Anthropocene” at the University of Vienna, with Kerstin S. Jobst (<https://konfliktlandschaften-galizien.univie.ac.at/>). Previously, she worked at the Cluster of Excellence “Asia and Europe in a Global Context” at the University of Heidelberg, with a research group on Allied War Crimes Trials in Asia after 1945. Her research focuses on the history of genocide and violence, especially the Holocaust, decolonization processes (with a focus on Asia), contemporary legal history, studies on memory, identity and apology, as well as global migration studies, and forced labour research. She edited (with Milinda Banerjee): “Law, Empire, and Global Intellectual History”, Forum of Modern Intellectual History 3 (2018) (<https://doi.org/10.1017/S1479244318000239>), as well as “Forced Migration and Refugee Resettlement in the Long 1940s: A Connected and Global History”, in Itinerario 46:2 (2022) (<https://doi.org/10.1017/S016515322000079>). Related publications: Nagornaia O., and von Lingen K., “Conflict Landscapes of the Great War: An Interdisciplinary Approach to the Spatial and Ecological Dimension of Military History”, in Quaestio Rossica, 2023, vol. 11, nr. 2, p. 571–585 (<https://doi.org/10.15826/qr.2023.2.806>).

Yulia Zherdeva

is a PhD in History. She holds an assistant professor position at the Faculty of History of the Samara National Research University (Samara, Russia), Department of General History, International Relations and Documentation Science. Her publications (monographs, articles in peer-reviewed journals, chapters in collections) are devoted to the political history of Russia at the beginning of the 20th century, the First World War, and studies of memory, museums, visual culture and the history of education. Selected publications: Zherdeva Yu.A. (2014), "Visualization of atrocities in Russian visual culture in World War One", in Bruish K., and Katzer N. (eds) Great War of Russia: social order, public communication, and violence at the turn of the tsarist and Soviet Epoch, Moscow, pp. 81-99 (in Russian).

Liubov Zhvanko

is professor, doctor of history sciences, head of the Museum Centre at Kharkiv State Biotechnology University, Ukraine. From January 2022, she has been on a scientific programme "Polonista" from the The Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange at Nicolaus Copernicus University in Toruń (from 2023 - Institute of Veterinary Medicine Faculty of Biological and Veterinary Sciences), Poland. Scientific interests: the refugees of the First World War, the social processes of the Ukrainian Revolution of 1917-1921, refugees and migration processes of the 20th to 21st centuries, history of Polonia Kharkiv, history of veterinary science in Poland. Publications: Europe on the Move: The Great War and Its Refugees (co-ed. P. Gatrell, L. Zhvanko, Manchester, 2017, 2019), Refugees of the First World War: Ukrainian Dimension (1914–1918) (Kharkiv 2012), Placówki dyplomatyczne Rzeczypospolitej Polskiej w Charkowie: historia i współczesność (Kharkiv, 2020), Per aspera ad astra. Listy Leona Cienkowskiego (1822–1887) (with D. Kibkalo, Toruń, 2022).