

National and Transnational Paths of Latin American Jews

Jewish Identities in a Changing World

General Editors

Eliezer Ben-Rafael
Yosef Gorny
Judit Bokser Liwerant

VOLUME 36

The titles published in this series are listed at brill.com/jicw

National and Transnational Paths of Latin American Jews

Modernity, Community, Society, and the State

By

Judit Bokser Liwerant

BRILL

LEIDEN | BOSTON

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Names: Bokser de Liwerant, Judit, author.

Title: National and transnational paths of Latin American Jews : modernity, community, society, and the state / by Judit Bokser Liwerant.

Description: Leiden ; Boston : Brill, [2025] | Series: Jewish identities in a changing world, 1570-7997 ; volume 36 | Includes bibliographical references and index. | Summary: "This book has been conceived through sustained research and work with axioms, hypotheses, theories, findings, and inspiring dialogues that converge in building a conceptual pathway. Various levels of theoretical, empirical, and analytical approaches intersect, shaping a transversal trajectory in which the thematic variety finds common foundations in analyses that transit between theoretical abstraction and concrete reality, with a call for reflexivity.

Identifiers: LCCN 2024045473 | ISBN 9789004712409 (hardback) | ISBN 9789004712416 (e-book)

Subjects: LCSH: Jews--Latin America--History. | Jews--Latin America--Social conditions. | Jews--Religious life--Latin America. | Group identity--Latin America. | Immigrants--Latin America--Social conditions. | Latin America--Ethnic relations--History.

Classification: LCC F1419.J4 B65 2025 | DDC 305.892/408--dc23/eng/20241118
LC record available at <https://lcn.loc.gov/2024045473>

Typeface for the Latin, Greek, and Cyrillic scripts: "Brill". See and download: brill.com/brill-typeface.

ISSN 1570-7997

ISBN 978-90-04-71240-9 (hardback)

ISBN 978-90-04-71241-6 (e-book)

DOI 10.1163/9789004712416

Copyright 2025 by Judit Bokser Liwerant. Published by Koninklijke Brill bv, Leiden, The Netherlands. Koninklijke Brill bv incorporates the imprints Brill, Brill Nijhoff, Brill Schöningh, Brill Fink, Brill mentis, Brill Wageningen Academic, Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, Böhlau and V&R unipress. Koninklijke Brill bv reserves the right to protect this publication against unauthorized use. Requests for re-use and/or translations must be addressed to Koninklijke Brill bv via brill.com or copyright.com. For more information: info@brill.com

This book is printed on acid-free paper and produced in a sustainable manner.

Contents

List of Figures and Tables XI

Acknowledgements XIII

Introductory Essay. Latin American Jewry: A Historical Conceptual Pathway 1

1 When Biography and Scientific Research Meet 23

2 Challenges to Knowledge 26

PART 1

Modernity as a Palimpsest

1 Dilemmas of Jews and Judaism in Modernity: Snapshots of an Effervescent Period of Challenges and Responses 33

1 Introductory Remarks 33

2 The Avatars of Modernity 34

3 Encounters and Interactions in History: Trends and Dilemmas 36

4 Mapping New Meanings. Snapshots of a Cartography 41

5 A Critical Reality, a New Ideological Corpus: Modernity and Zionism 45

6 Gazes into the Past, Critical Readings toward the Present 56

7 A Conceptual Detour, an Unfinished Reflection 59

2 From Modernity to Multiple Modernities: Latin America in the Americas 62

1 Multiple Modernities from a Latin American Perspective 65

2 Walking the Scale: A Conceptual and Historical Journey through Mexico 71

3 The Changing Reconfiguration of Modernity 75

4 Afterword as a Clue to This Book 85

3 Modernity's Historical and Conceptual Paths: Globalization, Secularization and Collective Identities 88

1 A Conceptual Detour 88

2 Social and Political Thought: The Debates and Their Sequences 92

3 Broadening the Axes of the Debate 97

- 4 New Challenges between the Individual and the Collective: The Universe of Religion amidst Secularization Processes 101
- 5 Universalism and Particularism Revisited 105

PART 2

Latin America's Time and Scales

- 4 A Dilemmatic Binary: Being National/Being Transnational 115
 - 1 Introductory Remarks 115
 - 2 A Conceptual and Historical Journey: Mexico and Latin America. The Foundations of Being National and Its Limits 119
 - 3 Public Sphere, Private Spaces. Transnational Links in Mexico and Latin America 124
 - 4 Building Democracy. Current Changes and Redefinitions of the Binary. Regional and Global Implications 128
 - 5 A New Phase of the Transnational Moment 132
- 5 The Jews of Latin America: Changing Constellations 140
 - 1 Latin America's Changes: Play and Counterplay 141
 - 2 A World of Identities: A New Global Overview 152
 - 3 The Vertices of Interaction 157
- 6 Diasporas and Transnationalism: New Inquiries on Latin American Jews 162
 - 1 Conceptual Reflections 162
 - 2 Context and Theorization 170
 - 3 An Inquiry into Ethno-National and Transnational Diasporas. The Cases of the Ashkenazi Kehillah of Buenos Aires and Mexico City 178
 - 4 Selected Diasporic Approaches to Latin American Jews: A Discussion 187
 - 5 Epilogue. Images of Otherness: Transnationalism and Ethno-Religious, Pan-Ethnic and National Diasporas 195

PART 3

Into the Past: Between Acceptance and Othering

- 7 The Thirties as Crucial Years: Jewish Immigration and Antisemitism 203
 - 1 The Onset of the Decade: Immigration Policies and Antisemitic Expressions 204
 - 2 The Cárdenas Regime: Immigration Policies and Antisemitic Expressions 210
 - 3 Jewish Refugees: Alterity and Prejudice 218
- 8 Otherness in History and Memory: The Jewish Refugees 226
 - 1 Introductory Remarks 226
 - 2 From History to Memory. A Brief Conceptual Detour 238
 - 3 The Construction of Memory and Its Narratives: Mexico as a Haven 240
- 9 Collective Identities in the Public Sphere 246
 - 1 A Gaze into Society and the Public Sphere from the Immigrant's Reality 249

PART 4

Between a New Diaspora and a National Home

- 10 The Genesis of Zionism in Mexico 267
 - 1 Zionism on the Move 269
 - 2 The Origins of Zionism in the Communal Space 271
 - 3 Ideological Strengths and Organizational Weaknesses: A Paradox? 279
 - 4 Renewed Ideological Debates 284
- 11 New Patterns of Action in the Public Sphere: Convergences and Divergences between National and Transnational Scales 292
 - 1 Introductory Historical Remarks 292
 - 2 Society Takes on Jewish National Aspirations 297
 - 3 The Mexican Government's Stance on the Palestine Question 306
 - 4 The Zionist Leadership's Political Action 312
 - 5 Mexico's Abstention—Discourse and Reality 318

- 12 The Impact of the Six-Day War on Jewish Communal Life 324
 - 1 The Organizational Axis: The Redefinition of Spaces 326
 - 2 An Interactional Axis: A Source of Legitimacy 332
- 13 Reconfiguration of the Regional and Global Scenarios: Zionism = Racism at a Critical Juncture 339
 - 1 President Echeverría's Foreign Policy 340
 - 2 Communal Practices, Actions, and Reactions 346
 - 3 Discourse, Symbolic Representation, and Delegitimization 352
 - 4 Delegitimization and Symbolic Violence 355
- 14 The Changing Status of Zionism and Israel in Latin American Jewry 362
 - 1 Introductory Remarks 362
 - 2 Grounding Trends 365
 - 3 Changing Patterns 367
 - 4 Contextual Parameters 368
 - 5 Redefining Centers in a Globalized World: The Territorial Referent 372
 - 6 Israel in Changing Educational Ecology 375
 - 7 National Funds: Solidarity and Pragmatism 378
 - 8 Going Global: Faces of an Ethno-Transnational Diaspora 381
 - 9 Changing Constellations: Continuity and Discontinuity 383

PART 5

Redefining Diaspora in Times of Transnationalism

- 15 Latin America Revisited Facing New Realities and Conceptual Challenges 391
 - 1 A Gaze into the Foundations: Past Globality 393
 - 2 Final Remarks 406
- 16 Into a Globalized World: Latin American Jews in the United States—Between Being and Belonging 410
 - 1 Latin American Jews on the Move 413
 - 2 A Conceptual Round 420
 - 3 The Relocation of Latin American Jewish Life in an American Mobile Environment 423

- 17 Latin American Jews in the United States: Cultural Encounters: Similarities and Dissimilarities 429
 - 1 Integration, Distinctiveness, and Continuity 431
 - 2 Jewish Multi-level Transnationalism in the Twenty-First Century 441
 - 3 Closing Remarks 445
- 18 Expanding Frontiers and Affirming Belonging: Youth Travel to Israel 449
 - 1 Introductory Remarks 449
 - 2 Building Jewish Life/Being Jewish in Latin America 452
 - 3 The Changing Reality of Latin American Jewish Life: The Mirror of the Educational World 456
 - 4 Trends and Findings 458
 - 5 Type of Trips to Israel 462
 - 6 A Comparative Detour: Taglit Trips 468
 - 7 Summary and Discussion 475

PART 6

Which Modernity? Projects, History, Memory and Otherness

- 19 The Holocaust—Memory, Victims, and Morality: On Zygmunt Bauman and Beyond 483
 - 1 Which Modernity When History Is Absent 485
 - 2 Rationality-Morality: A Problematic Binomial 490
 - 3 The Memory of Horror, Its Representation, the Image 496
 - 4 Jusidman's Prussian Blue 503
 - 5 Concluding Remarks 505
- 20 Conceptual and Methodological Clues for Approaching the Connections between Mexico and the Holocaust: Separate or Interconnected Histories? 506
 - 1 The Holocaust and Latin America: A Brief Overview 509
 - 2 International/Intergovernmental Connections 510
 - 3 Between Connections and Disconnections: Mexico and the Refugee Crisis 513
 - 4 Transnational Interconnections: Actors, Decisions, Implications 516

5	Interconnections on the Individual Level: The Refugee-Victim-Survivor	534
6	Final Reflections	538
21	Sinopia and Pentimenti: Conceptual Approaches and Changing Paths: Antisemitism in Latin America	542
1	Sinopia and Pentimenti : A Required Clarification	543
2	Building the Tropos : Sinopia and Pentimenti	545
3	Continuities and Discontinuities and Related Prejudices: Recurrences and Changes	546
4	Conceptual Debates	549
5	The National, the Regional, the Global	560
6	Snapshots of Historical and Sociological Perspectives	562
7	Changes in Discursive Antisemitism: From the Printed Press to the Social Networks	573
22	Jews in The Americas. A Continental Gaze	579
1	The Americas: Identifying the Object	580
2	Conceptual Approaches: a Promising albeit Debated Triad	583
3	Into the Region: Structures, Obstacles, Trends	588
4	The United States	589
5	A Different North: Canada	592
6	Latin America: The Region's Diversity and Comparative Remarks	594
7	The Triad Today: Selected Snapshots	600
8	South to North and Beyond	605
9	A Global Memory	612
10	Concluding Remarks	613
	Bibliography	619
	Index	705

Figures and Tables

Figures

1	Rethinking the relations between collective identities and public spheres	14
2	The structural and cultural dimensions of modernities	67
3	Multiple modernities from Latin America's perspective	68
4	Modernities in Latin America and Western Modernity: discontinuity, breakdowns, and tensions	69
5	Tensions, disjuncture, and contradictions: Conceptual tools	75
6	Transformations, ambiguities, and divergences in contemporary Latin America	78
7	Multiple modernities in Latin America: challenges and questions	82
8	The public sphere	255
9	Common field-hypotheses	257
10	Overlapping terrains of prejudice	359
11	Diversity of migration processes and its implications	413
12	Conceptual renewal of territory and community (material + symbolic): transnationalism	414
13	Migration crisis and Jewish migration	416
14	The interactive context of educational/youth trips to Israel	452
15	Regional and international changing circumstances	453
16	Globalization, diaspora, and transnationalism	455
17	Latin American Jewry: Past, present	457
18	Interdependence, disjuncture, and convergences	472
19	Sinopia and pentimenti	544
20	The changing dynamics of prejudice	546
21	Overlapping processes at the meaning-making level	548
22	Old and/or new antisemitism? Conceptual debates	552
23	Contrasting approaches	553
24	Creating-recovering prejudices	555
25	Antisemitism as a permanent characteristic of Latin America?	561
26	The ideological spectrum facing Jewish immigration—Mexico in the '20s and on	563
27	Colombia and Costa Rica	564
28	Tropos -building in Argentina: Advancing the anti-Zionist paradigm	567
29	Overlapping prejudices	570
30	An interconnected world	574
31	The world of Internet	575

32 The avatars of antisemitism and knowledge 576

33 Conceptual approaches: A promising albeit debated triad 584

34 The challenges of migration and integration 607

35 Epistemological shift 617

Tables

1 Educational attainment of the Hispanic population in the U.S., 2017 (Pew Research Center, 2019b) 398

2 Spatial composition in the United States: Southern Florida, Southern California, and the Northeast-Midwest 425

3 Day school attendance, outmarriage, affiliation, trips to Israel in Latin American countries 461

4 Participants in teen trips (The Jewish Agency for Israel, 2022) 462

5 Participants in Machon LeMadrichim 463

6 Participants in Machon LeMadrichim by country in Latin America (Machon LeMadrihim, 2020) 464

7 Levels of observance—The Jewish community in México (Comité Central Israelita de México 2000, 2015, 2022) 465

8 Participants in Masa Program, 2013–2022 (Masa Program, 2022) 467

9 Participants in Taglit/Birthright 469

Acknowledgements

Teachers, students, and colleagues have left their imprints on this book. Through dialogues, mutual readings, discussions, and collaboration, they expanded my world. In the introductory essay, I give an account of the cognitive and existential trajectory that has delineated my work, and I recognize their role in my research journey. Thus, our social sciences reaffirm their own inherent sociability as a collective endeavor, whose ultimate product and responsibility, however, relies on me. Making explicit the scope and meaning of collegiality and the academic frameworks in which I developed my work is an expression of intellectual gratitude.

My recognition to that generation of intellectual immigrants who brought their knowledge to the shores of the Río de la Plata, shaping a new space for Jewish culture and establishing the Jewish Teachers Seminar at the AMIA, where I experienced my adolescent encounter with Judaism. They offered the analytical gaze my previous Jewish schooling couldn't offer while focusing on planting the seeds of the affective links.

That AMIA building symbolizes the richness of thoughts and the tragedy of destruction.

Haim Avni, S.N. Eisenstadt, and Shlomo Avineri, bright minds and committed human beings at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, were central in my formative years as a social scientist.

Years later, Sergio DellaPergola became a privileged interlocutor and collaborator in that Jerusalem environment and beyond, contributing with his rigorous analyses to better understand, among other fundamental questions, not only the sociodemographic profile but also the utopias of the Jewish world.

My stays at the Hebrew University contributed not only to cross countries and regions, but mainly to cross disciplinary borders and helped overcome what Ulrich Beck rightly called methodological nationalism. I have benefited from the wider circles of a community of researchers in contemporary Judaism and Latin America. Leonardo Senkman has opened a path of lucid collaborations on different initiatives and projects.

Fifteen years of the Programa de Estudios Judaicos at the Universidad Iberoamericana in Mexico, in collaboration with the Jerusalem Program for University Teaching of Jewish Civilization founded by Prof Moshe Davis, became a unique space for creative and plural thought. Built on visiting professors, it became a unique nucleus for the professionalization of Jewish education and the development of young academic researchers in Mexico.

Eliezer Ben Rafael has encouraged relevant research, its crystallization in the Klal Yisrael seminars, and co-authorship in publications that have given life to this series. I also acknowledge our partner in this book series, Yosi Gorny.

A special thanks to Katelyn Chin, a pillar of our series, who personally supported me with her unyielding faith that this book would reach her skilled hands. To the Brill team, particularly Katerina Sofianou and Karthick J, my biggest thanks for their sustained work.

Crossing borders has always been fruitful. I am deeply grateful to Michel Wieviorka, with whom, over these years, France and Mexico became intellectual territories for collaboration.

Being president of the Association for the Social and Scientific Study of Jewry has allowed me to enhance and further develop the insights of a comparative approach that explains the singularity and shared traits of our disciplines and milieus.

Yael Siman has been a talented and empathetic research companion and collaborator. I wholeheartedly thank her for her extended input and joint works, and our collaborative article with Daniela Gleizer.

The Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México is my generous home for years of teaching and research. My colleagues at the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences, the Graduate Program I headed, the Center for Political Studies, and the Center for Multidisciplinary Social Theory have allowed me to develop a broad vision of the social sciences.

My courses and seminars in political theory and political sociology have always confronted me with the lucid questions of students who have made our dialogue a practice of scientific knowledge. Hundreds of voices have encouraged me. To all of them, my thanks. Many of them became my young colleagues. A special mention to Federico Saracho, whose innovative thought has accompanied me for the last years, to Perla Kane, Betty Mendlovick, and Adjani Tovar, who followed and broadened my research interests, and many more.

Special mention deserves several archives and their fascinating worlds. Among them, The Zionist Central Archives of Jerusalem, The Washington State Archives, The Mexican Archivo de la Secretaría de Relaciones Exteriores, the Mexican Archivo General de la Nación, and several community and personal archives. I want to underscore the YIWO Archive in New York, where, for the first time, I discovered valuable boxes with pictures that reflected the Mexican and Latin American Jewish world—including the historical one of Leon Trotsky with Jewish journalists in Mexico, where he declared that he would see with the most positive eyes a national solution to the Jewish plight. This discovery and subsequent images of immigrants who, disregarding their previous expertise, became peddlers whose figures could be found in different cities across the Americas.

Those pictures led me to search for more human and subjective testimonies of the actors in other sources. While discovering similarities between different communities in Latin America, I want to underline a relevant and moving one: my own father's speech in Argentina's House of Representatives, mobilizing the country's support for the Partition of Palestine.

To my team, which accompanies me in the fascinating and demanding Revista Mexicana de Ciencias Políticas y Sociales (Mexican Journal of Political and Social Sciences), I sincerely recognize their solid and efficient presence: the long-time committed and caring Iraís García as well as Alan Rico, assistant editor, Miranda Coranges, and Yessica Moraflores.

This book wouldn't have reached its final form without Elizabeth Villanueva's intelligence and highly sophisticated technical support. Her active and patient work became essential to it. I profoundly and unconditionally thank her.

Daniel Liwerant has been the most patient and supportive life companion. I have unlimited love and appreciation for his caring and generous nature. We share our deepest ties with Jerusalem, where we met as students.

To my sons, Mark and Gad, their families and my five grandchildren—Eitan, Hannah, Anat, Ezequiel, and Talia—thanks for their warmth, and hoping they will find interest in my world of interests.

