

PREFACE

As colleagues and students of Jan van den Berg, we would like to show our high esteem for his work as specialist in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century international religious history with this volume of his collected essays. It is a great honour that Jan van den Berg has been willing to accept our invitation to make a selection of a number of his articles which show his expertise in the history of early modern Protestantism and the Protestant Enlightenment. This collection is a most valuable contribution to religious history in general and Anglo-Dutch relations in particular.

We wish to acknowledge the Dr. C. Louise Thijssen-Schoute Foundation grant and the Hendrik Muller's Vaderlandsch Fund grant which have made the publication of this volume possible.

We also extend our gratitude to Professor Heiko A. Oberman for his willingness to include this book in his prestigious series "Studies in the History of Christian Thought".
