Acknowledgements

While the practice field of global project finance law is large and growing, academic studies by lawyers and social scientists are sparse. This collection aims to address this imbalance. It seeks to foster an academic community of lawyers and social scientists looking at this vital subject area. The ability of the collection to do so has depended upon the collegiality of the contributors to the volume and on the high quality of their contributions. The life of this project dates back to 2001 and would not have been possible without their patience and support. For this reason, the editor owes the greatest debt to the participants in the collection. At the same time, the book has been helped along in important ways by Yves Dezalay, Bryant Garth, Andrew Harding, Richard Falk, Philip Lawton, Ugo Mattei, Sally Falk Moore, David Sugarman, and William Twining. This book has also been completed with the support of the Arts and Humanities Research Board. As always, Joy Mooberry must be singled out for her tireless support and it is to her that this volume is lovingly dedicated.
