

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

These papers are the result of a symposium with the title "China and the West in Dialogue – Ethical Bases of Our Societies" that took place in October 1998 in Trier, a city that with its two genii loci – Karl Marx and Nicholas of Cusa – is something of an ideal place to mediate between Chinese and Western ideas. In fact, it was the second symposium of this kind ("China and the West in Dialogue"), the first one having been held in April 1997 (its proceedings have already been published by Brill in 1999 under the title Chinese Thought in a Global Context – A Dialogue Between Chinese and Western Philosophical Approaches). That we were able to continue the dialogue between China and the West was foremost due to the support by the Konrad-Adenauer-Foundation. Therefore, we want to thank first of all Mr. Thesing and his colleagues from the Konrad-Adenauer-Foundation both for the generous financial assistance and particularly Dr. Weig, Mr. Awe and Miss Lassalle for the invaluable assistance in matters of organization. Without their help, it would have been impossible to gather in Trier in October 1998. Next we must mention our partners in China. We thank them for their readiness to cooperate in the project: Prof. Chen Yunquan and his colleagues from the Philosophy Department of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences in Peking, as well as Prof. Gerhold K. Becker, Director of the Center of Applied Ethics of Hong Kong Baptist University. Further we want to thank Mr. David Andrews for proof-reading the entire manuscript, as well as our research assistants, Dirk Kuhlmann, Harald Schultz, Lim Sim-ye, Ruth Bahlmann and Susan Hohmann for competently handling all matters of computer based desktop publishing, from correcting the manuscripts to the final layout. Last but not least, we want to thank the participants. The sharing of ideas and the receptivity to other opinions is, after all, what makes a symposium.
