

Acknowledgements

Such an endeavour rests on the labour of many people. ISDD, under whose auspices the study was planned and conducted, thanks all those throughout the EU whose suggestions proved invaluable in facilitating the research.

This thanks extends to many academic experts and officials in ministries throughout the European Union, too numerous to name here, who helped us to contact experts with whom to discuss possible participation in the study.

Also we thank those who made other forms of input into the study, including those who attended a seminar at the Inns of Court, London, at which presentations were made and the first synthesis attempted. The London seminar was officially opened for ISDD by Dennis Muirhead and Anna Bradley, respectively its Chairman and Executive Director. Participants included: one person for each of the national research teams contributing to this book; Judge Ian Campbell of the Sessional Court in Liverpool, who presented a wide-ranging briefing on Third Pillar aspects; a representative of the European Commission; a member of the management board of the European Monitoring Centre on Drugs and Drug Addiction; and UK delegates from the Home Office, the private sector and NGOs. Hélène Chabran assisted the seminar organisationally and linguistically. Peter Garde rounded the seminar off with Mozart's piano sonata in B flat major, K333.

Special thanks are due to Jocelyne Castaignede for doing double duty on both France and Spain. Simone White gave advice throughout the project and translated the French/Spanish chapter, in addition to contributing her chapter on EC aspects and coediting the conclusion. Pat Wheeler translated the Italian chapter. Harry Shapiro and Véronique Sérafinowicz at ISDD helped with the transformation from bits to book. Lindy Melman at Kluwer agreed publication and Peter Buschman and Phil Johnstone helped us get the book out in good time. Throughout the study, Pascale Darchy-Robinson at ISDD administered it with dedication.

Finally, ISDD and the editor gratefully acknowledge the financial support of the Secretariat General of the European Commission, without which the study would not have been possible, and Hilde van Lindt, who was most supportive throughout.
