ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The text of the UNPO Yearbook is a testament to the struggles of UNPO Members' efforts to ameliorate their difficult situations. The fact that the UNPO Yearbook gets published, though, is a testament to the struggles of the Secretariat staff. To prepare the Yearbook, staff gather information from more than 50 disparate regions of the world, use a wide variety of languages, receive materials by post, fax, telephone, electronic mail, package and courier, translate and modify diverse syntactical and grammatical configurations and styles, and generally coordinate the Members' efforts to put understandable words and phrases to their complex and not infrequently painful predicaments.

The entire Secretariat is involved in a thousand different ways in making the Yearbook a reality: helping to contact Members, soothing frayed nerves, typing and re-typing, consultations and pacifications, answering telephone calls and e-mails, keeping track of costs and finances, and a million other details too small to mention but too large to neglect.

The Yearbook would never have become a reality without the attention and assistance of those who coordinated the difficult work of preparing the member reports: Isobel Buiters, Eliane Provó Kluit, Robin Sluyk, Erica Zwaan, Yob van As, Linnart Mäll, Willem de Vriend, Christine van der Maten and Jasper Maas. Additional important assistance was provided by Karen Onthank, Daniel van Vulpen, Heleen Koopal, Julie Berriault, Immelie Vegter, Gillian Huebner, Angelique Hoefsmit, Sheri Jay, Tineke Hendrikse, Heidi Krieger, Alison Comp, Mercedes Reyes, Orsalia Lambropoulou and Soesila Balbahadur, by the publishers through the kindness of Sabine Wesseldijk, and Selma Hoedt, and, of course, by Tsering Jampa and Michael van Walt.

Kathy Voyles and Atticus Ryan must be singled out for their unwavering loyalty and dedication with the sometimes wearisome and often overwhelming task of putting together this cumbersome tome.

On a personal note, I am grateful for the individual members whom I have met. It is they who imposed a human face onto the often impersonal stories that we read and hear every day in the Secretariat. It is to them and to their children that I dedicate the work which we all accomplished in order to produce this Yearbook.
